I think that the proverb means that if you should to hear your heart and make your future how you want. I think you're aren't necessary if you're bad at this. In my opinion, everyone should to do what he or she likes.

When my mum was a child, she wanted to be a doctor. but she had to go to the technical university. She didn't hated maths, but grandmother loved.

My 16-years-old sister wants to be a shef, and she wanted to left school after 9 class. But now she's at 10 class because her father believe that it's necessary.
